The Daily News.

NEWPORT.

BY CHANSTON & NORMAN
144 THAMES STREET.

TUESDAY MORNING, NOV. 6, 1855

Mr. Samuel French, New York, will publish, in a few days, a work of great interest to the musical and literary world, entitled "Crotches and Quavers; or, Revelations of an Opera Manager in America," by Max Maretz, the well-known Manager of the Italian Opera in the city of New York. It will undoubtedly have an extensive sale.

The houses of Messrs. W. P. Sheld and Thomas J. Peckham were entered, the former on Friday and the latter on Saturday night; some clothing and silver were stolen from Mr. Sheld's, and a gold watch from Mr. Peckham's.

The ASTOR HOUSE LIQUOR CASE.—In the matter of the complaint made by the Temperance Alliance against Messrs. Colman and Stetson, proprietors of the Astor House, the Recorder delivered a decision on yesterday discharging the defendants.

He holds that the plaintiff was bound to prove that the liquor was not imported; that the sale of imported liquors is free to every citizen, and that the seventeenth section of the prohibitory law, which declares that the proof of sale is evidence of unlawful sale unconstitutional. The section declaring liquor kept for sale contrary to the statute, a nuisance, and also the search, seizure and destruction clauses, he declares unconstitutional. — Commercial Ad.

HONORABLE AFFAIR IN URBANA.—The Ohio State Journal relates the following: "On Friday last, Judge Williams of Union county, at one time Associated Judge of that county, while in a state of intoxication, seated himself on the railroad track in the vicinity of Urbana, and was knocked off the track by a freight train, and his foot crushed in such a manner that amputation had to be resorted to the same night. We learn that Judge Williams died last night from the effects of injuries received at the time. It is due to the engineer of the train to say that he found the person would leave the track he reversed his engine and jumped off and endeavored to run ahead of his machine to save Mr. Williams, but missed it not more than two steps. The Judge leaves a wife and children to mourn his loss."

GUESS IT'S RATS.—A party (gentleman, lady and child) entirely sane and veracious, stopping at one of our Broadway hotels, tells us a curious story about the "Spirit." The lady and child, while in their room, heard some loud thumps or concussions, for which there was no apparent cause, and the child said "guess it's rats." When the gentleman returned he was made acquainted with the facts, and at the same time it was communicated to him (by Spirits) that if he would look in his carpet bag and trunk, he would find the source of the strange noises. He looked and found that of two daguerreotypes which he had in each of those receptacles, the glass in one of each had been broken, as though a bullet had been shot through it, making a hole from which the whole glass was shivered in a radiating circle. The glass under the holes were powdered fine, and yet not a scratch appeared on the plates of the daguerreotypes. We have seen the daguerreotypes, and it seems marvelous how these glasses could have been thus broken without dashing plates and cases in pieces. The gentleman is staggered by the "manifestation," and wants light on the subject. We must command him to Judge Edmonds. —N. Y. Mirror.

MILDEW is one of the greatest pests of green-houses and all sorts of plant structures. The following remedy has been tried in the houses of the London Horticultural Society, and it is thought will prove efficacious:—"Sulphur and unslaked lime put into a tub of water, in which they are quickly and intimately mixed, and the trees and plants syringed with the clear liquid after these substances have settled at the bottom."

THE NATIONAL DEBT OF ENGLAND.—We see it stated that the debt of England on the 31st of March of the present year was £751,645,813; the amount of interest payable on which, was £22,557,355. This would be at the rate of $2,300,000 interest every week; or, to bring it down still closer, it amounts to about $330,000 a day! The present war is likely to add considerably to the weight of this millstone which hangs about the necks of the British people.

"Facts are stubborn things," said a lawyer to a female witness under examination. The lady replied, "Yes, sir—so; and so are women, and if you get anything out of me, just let me know it." "You'll be committed for contempt." "Very well, I'll suffer justly, for I feel the utmost contempt for every lawyer present."

A PARAGON OF A WOMAN.—The Indianapolis Journal gives the following account of a lady residing in Paris, Tennessee. Her example is worthy of imitation, not so much as regards the extraordinary generosity she has herself exhibited, as the generous conduct she has manifested towards those not of her own blood. We are very sorry that we can't give her name in full. The matron in question is a Mrs. D., now eighty-seven years old. She had twenty-three living children, and prayed to the good Lord to give her one more, to make the round and gaudy number of two dozen. Besides these, she has raised fourteen orphan children. She has educated thirty children—her own and a portion of the orphans—and for many years sent nineteen children to school in Paris, and their dinners with them. She says that none of those she has reared and educated have ever disgraced her or themselves. The girls have all married well, and are rich. The boys have all done well; one of her orphan protégés has been in Congress, several others in the State Legislature; there are sundry colonels, &c., among them, and all are highly respectable.—Phila. Sun.

A BREACH OF MANNERS CONSTRAINED AS A COMPLIMENT.—The San Francisco Sun tells the following:—

A young gentleman was standing on Merchant street, when a lady attended by her husband, stepped from the door of the Washington market, and hesitated on the pavements for a few moments as if uncertain which direction to pursue. Fascinated by her great beauty, the young man gazed upon her with a fixed stare. By chance she met his gaze, and discovering something unusual in it, made it a subject of remark to her lord. That indignant individual approached the offending admirer, addressed him rather savagely, and asked him, 'what he meant by his rudeness.'

"Pardon me," said the gallant, recovering from his fit of abstraction; "I intended no offence. There is a loveliness about that lady's face that would intoxicate an anchorage, and I was lost in admiration of it."

"All right," replied the satisfied Benedict; "if you'll remain here till I escort Susan home, I'll return and stand treat for your good opinion of her."

A REMARKABLE EXPERIMENT.—A recent work of science gives the following novel experiment, which settles a question of some importance in philosophy: Two hundred pounds weight of earth was dried in an oven, and afterwards put into an earthen vessel. The earth was then moistened with rain water, and a willow tree, weighing five pounds, was placed therein. During the space of five years the earth was carefully watered with rain water, or pure water; the willow grew and flourished, and, to prevent the earth being mixed with fresh earth or dust blown to it by the winds it was covered with a metal plate perforated with a great number of small holes suitable for the free admission of air only. After growing in the air for five years the tree was removed and found to weigh 160 pounds and about three ounces; the leaves which fell from the tree every autumn were not in this weight. The earth was then removed from the vessel, and again dried in the oven, and afterwards weighed; it was afterwards discovered to have lost only about two ounces of its original weight. Thus 164 pounds of woody fibre, bark and roots, were certainly produced; but from what source? The air has been discovered to be the source of solid element at least. This statement may at first appear incredible, but on slight reflection its truth is proved, because the atmosphere contains carbonic acid, which is the compound of 713 parts by weight of oxygen and 338 parts by weight of carbon.

A village school-master announced one day to his pupils that the inspector would soon visit the school. "Now," said the teacher, "if he questions you on geography, he will probably ask, 'What is the shape of the earth?' and you may easily remember by my snuff-box that it is round." It so happened that the teacher had two snuff-boxes, one round, which he used on Sundays, and the other square, which he used during the week. The day at length arrived. As the master anticipated, the inspector asked one of the boys, "What shape is the earth?" and the lad, turning his eye towards the master, replied, "It is round on Sunday, sir, but square the rest of the week."

THE FIRST MOVE IN A GREAT GAME.—The schooner Caroline E. Flora, which arrived at this port the other day from Japan, is the first vessel that has ever imported a cargo directly from that country into the United States. Her cargo consisted of Japanese rice, which is pronounced to be of a superior quality, and upwards of one hundred and forty cases of Japanese ware, including fine silks, and articles of various descriptions manufactured by that curious class of people who are now being formally introduced into the commercial world.

Here is a theme on which to build a theory of future stupendous commercial transactions. The little Yankee schooner that comes freighted with Oriental notions, perhaps more valued as curiosities, is but a pioneer that sailed the van of fleets which may hereafter make princely fortunes for our adventurous merchants.—San Francisco Paper.

MARRIAGE BY WHOLESALE.—On the 1st inst., a ceremony, as rare as it was interesting, took place at the house of Jesse Chapman, Esq., of Waterford, Oakland County, Michigan. His four sons, of ages between 20 and 30, and living in different parts of the State, all made their appearance at the paternal mansion with a lady accompaniment, and were followed by a clergyman who went to work and joined the whole quatraine in the bonds of matrimony, beginning at the eldest and leaving off at the least of age. After a friendly chat with the "Old folks at home," the boys and girls were certainly produced; but from what source? The air has been discovered to be the source of solid element at least. This statement may at first appear incredible, but on slight reflection its truth is proved, because the atmosphere contains carbonic acid, which is the compound of 713 parts by weight of oxygen and 338 parts by weight of carbon.

DEATH OF HON. JUSTIN BUTTERFIELD—

MEETING OF THE BAR.—Hon. Justin Butterfield, for many years a member of the Bar, in this city, and Commissioner of the General Land Office, under General Taylor's Administration, died at his residence yesterday, in the sixty-sixth year of his age. He had been ill for nearly two years and for some time preceding his death was entirely unconscious. Mr. B.

was a very eminent lawyer and a prominent Whig politician, and during the course of his profession amassed a very large fortune, amounting to nearly half a million of dollars. Of all his children but four survive—Lieut. Wm. Butterfield, U. S. Navy and three daughters, two of whom reside in this city.

Mr. B.'s oldest daughter is married to Dr. S. Sawyer of this city, who is one of our oldest and most esteemed merchants, and who has amassed quite a large fortune by his industry and excellent business habits. The second daughter is married to S.

F. Johnston, Esq., late of Cincinnati, but now of this city, and a very extensive property owner. The third is married to a banker in Madison, Wisconsin, whose name we do not now recollect. Mr. But-terfield's wife survives him. The family were originally from Watertown, N. Y., and moved to this city at a very early period.

The following are the proceedings of a meeting of the Bar of this county, upon the occasion of Mr. Butterfield's decease.

HENRY TISDALE:

PROFESSOR WOOD'S HAIR RESTORATIVE.
IS, no doubt, the most wonderful discovery of this age of progress. The following is from a distinguished member of the medical profession: St. Paul, January 1, 1855.

Prof. O. J. Wood, Dear Sir—Unsolicted, I send you this certificate. After being nearly bald for a long time, and having tried all the hair restoratives extant, and having no faith in any, I was induced on hearing of yours, to give it a trial. I placed myself in the hands of a barber, and had my head well rubbed with a good stiff brush, and the Restorative then applied and well rubbed in, till the scalp was all a glow. This I repeated every morning, and in three weeks the young hair appeared, and grew rapidly from August last to the present time, and is now thick, black, and strong—soft and pleasant to the touch, whereas before it was harsh and wiry, what little there was of it, and was disappearing rapidly. I still use your Restorative about twice a week, and shall soon have a good and perfect crop of hair. Now I have read of these things—and who has not?— but have never seen hitherto, any case in which any person's hair was really benefited by any of the hair tonics, &c., of the day; and it really gives me pleasure to record the result of my experience. I have recommended your preparation to others, and it already has a large and general sale throughout the Territory. The people here like it, and have confidence in it.
All who have used it here, will coincide with me in what I have written. The supply you sent us, as the wholesale agents for the territory, is already exhausted, and daily inquiries are made for it. You deserve credit for your discovery. I for one return you thanks for the benefit it has done me, for I certainly had despaired long ago, of ever effecting such result. I congratulate you that your fortune (and a large one) is already made.

Yours, hastily,

J. W. BOND,

Firm of Bond & Kellogg, Druggists, St. Paul, M. T.

Brockfield, Mass., June 12th, 1855.

Prof. Wood.—Dear Sir.—Having made a trial of your Hair Restorative, it gives me pleasure to say, that its effect has been excellent in removing inflammation, dandruff, and a constant itching with which I have been troubled from childhood, and has also restored hair which was becoming gray, to its original color.
I have used no other article with anything like the pleasure and profit.

Yours truly,

United the Maryland Consolidated Lotteries, Baltimore, Md., 20th June, 1835.

CAUTION—TO OPPERTY FRAUDS.

THE Commissioner of the Maryland State Lotteries has desired it his duty to caution the Public against the numerous Swindlers who circulate by mail and otherwise fraudulent Lotteries schemes, and pretend to be agents for the sale of tickets in Lotteries which are wholly fictitious.

The only legal Lotteries in Maryland are those drawn daily under the superintendence of the Commissioner elected by the people of the State under the new Constitution to examine and approve the schemes and attend to the drawings.

All the tickets in these Lotteries and all certificates of packages of tickets have the lithographed signature of F. X. BRENNAN, General Agent to the Contractor, Office of the Maryland Consolidated Lotteries, Baltimore, Md., and others are fraudulent.

For further information on the subject these frauds, address F. X. BRENNAN,
